

Variance.....

"A modular home will run between $24,000-$26,000. You could get a Farmer's Home Administration house for about $30,000."

Longo reported, "FHA will loan you the money without anything down."

Mrs. Favre said her daughter and her husband wanted to place the trailer behind her home to save money to eventually build a house in the country.

Rappold said, "I wish we could grant a variance, but I can't - my conscience won't let me do it."

Mrs. Favre stated, "Jessie Breland has a trailer on our street near the gravel pits and I believe that is a residential area too."

Longo replied, "I don't think that gravel pit is zoned R-1."

Mrs. Favre said, "I heard the subject of Jessie Breland putting a trailer in their wasn't brought before the board."

Rappold replied, "I think it was discussed at an informal meeting."

Mrs. Favre stated, "He's been living in a trailer since the zoning ordinance was passed."

Longo replied, "We just can't make a variance to an ordinance."

Alderman Louis Smolensky said, "I know I've turned down people before asking to put a trailer in a residential area. I wish you could build a tent to live in for six months, but what if somebody in my ward wanted to do the same thing. You give one variance and you're going to have to give a lot more of them."

Mrs. Favre replied, "There's been trailers in and out of Jessie's place. I've called the police and they didn't do anything when kids were living in a trailer he rented and were having parties all the time."

Longo said, "I certainly didn't know about it."

"In 1972 we passed a zoning ordinance, we set a deadline for compliance and extended it and extended it. There's no way around the ordinance except for a modular home, but I'm sure some get by," Longo reported.

"It's impossible to get a permit from the city and the power company won't hook up electricity unless you have a permit," Longo added.

Rappold said, "Probably, the people with the trailer hooked up electricity from a nearby home and ran the water from there too."

Mrs. Favre reported, "That's exactly what they did."

Longo stated, "I'll be glad to spend time and work something out with you, but I can't in my heart consider the gravel pits an R-1 area."

Mrs. Favre replied, "It (the trailer) is on my road."

In other business at the city's regular meeting 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, the board:

—Heard a report from Longo that the city's police force will double its patrol on the beachfront over the Easter holidays;

—Accepted bid by Beta Enterprises of Gulfport for water lines, drainage and paving along Ulman Street. Rappold said the bid was taken under advisement at a March 1 meeting and is part of the Middletown Rehabilitation Project;

—Approved proceeding with the Ulman Street project;

—Approved a resolution adopting a criteria for the Ulman Street project which was amended;

—Approved removal of a $4,500 assessment on a house owned by Robert Meyers which was not completed in enough time to be placed on the tax rolls;

—Approved a request by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Gauden asking the city to replace two magnolia trees which were cut down by city grass cutting crews in front of the Waveland Avenue residence;

—Approved placing a six-inch by six-inch advertisement in the Sea Coast Echo encouraging residents to send in census forms so the city will be eligible for certain federal funds;

—Approved the minutes from the last meeting and the March docket;

—Took six bids under advisement pending housing and urban development approval for work on homes in the Middletown Rehabilitation Project. Ladd's Construction Co. was the only bidder on the six homes. Bids received were for the homes of Ethel Simpkins—$18,950; Wesley Dorn—$6,850; Alan Champaign—$8,450; Julius Thomas—$13,900; Pauline Harrington—$14,500; and Roland Gallivan—$9,474.

UNO receives oil spill research grants

Two grants totaling $112,190 have been awarded to the University of New Orleans by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration for research being conducted by the University's Center for Bio-Organic Studies on the effects of the Mexican oil spill.

A $75,000 grant was awarded to study the chemical fate of the petroleum hydrocarbons in the Gulf of Mexico from the spill and a $37,190 grant was awarded to provide analytical chemical documentation and data management support for damage assessment.

The IXTOC-I spill occurred last June and was capped March 23. It is estimated that 15,000 to 30,000 barrels of crude oil entered the Gulf each day.

board and McCullough have denied school patrons and organizations certain constitutional and civil rights.

The plaintiffs are also seeking an end to the board's controversial Policy 18 and school records reproduction policy.

Last month U.S. District Court Judge Dan M. Russell Jr. recused himself from the case because he said he had previously dealt with the school board when he was Bay St. Louis city attorney.

Seven depositions taken from plaintiffs during December, 1979 have yet to be filed with the court clerk if they are to be introduced in a trial to resolve the matter.

The suit states the money requested as damages will be used to air condition Bay St. Louis schools.

Monday's hearing apparently included discussion of attorney's fees, which apparently will be paid by defendants—the superintendent and the school board.

Sources this week indicated the school board has agreed to re-write the controversial policies named in the plaintiffs' petition, including Policy 18 and the documents copying policy.

No information was available, however, on intended settlement of the plaintiffs' demand for $20,000 in punitive damages.

Also still shrouded in mystery is the question of the source of payment of defense attorney fees in the matter.

Defense attorney Lucien Gex will apparently be compensated for his efforts in the suit either from school board funds or possibly by a school board insurer.

Also unclear is the matter of how the board might pay any settlements to which it may agree or be instructed to pay by the courts, such as plaintiffs' attorney fees or damages.

Brother Canisius named for Governor's Award

By THERESA JAMES
RSVP Director
The Hancock County RSVP began its seventh year on April 1 with some 300 volunteers enrolled, performing approximately 5,000 hours of service per month at 28 or which are non-profit organizations.

One of the services these volunteers perform is home visitation. This is an important part of volunteering because the homebound need special attention which sometimes cannot be bought. We need more volunteers for this service, so anyone interested in helping those less fortunate, please call the office at 467-9204.

Every year we nominate a volunteer to receive a governor's special award. First, Carl Baldenhofer then Esther Oschmann received special awards. This year Volunteer Appreciation Day will be Thursday, April 24 in Jackson.

Nominated this year is Brother Canisius Schell who organized "Project Do." He has done a tremendous job with the young people and they have used their spare time helping others. We have also nominated for a special award the teenagers as a group who perform these marvelous deeds.

The Easter Egg Hunt which was held Tuesday, April 1st, was a huge success. We do hope that those who attended enjoyed the activities. We would like to thank those volunteers who helped.

We appreciate all the help from our volunteers who so willingly offer their time whenever there are special activities which call for more people to supply refreshments, call for Bingo games, help decorate and many, many other chores which need doing. We can't express our gratitude any other way than just saying "thank you."

Those who baked muffins and donated them for the Easter Egg Hunt included Eva Manieri, Maggie Damborino, Margaret Farve, Georgiana Diebold, Grace Guillemet, Ethel Dormain, Annie Sulzer, Velma Heitzmann, Esther Cuevas and Genevieve Cole.

We would also like to thank Eva Manieri for helping dye all the eggs, with the help of the staff, for the hunt. We would also like to welcome two newcomers to our area, Mr. and Mrs. Albrizze. They recently moved from Los Angeles and are already involved in volunteering. Mr. Albrizze helps with the framing class, Civil Defense and at the Hospitality Center.

Bits-N-Pieces

By Ellis Cuevas

We have to feel for our many residents in the low lying areas of Pearlinton with flooding for the second year in a row.

One of the old timers in that area told us Monday he had never seen flooding in Pearlinton two years in a row in his lifetime.

It is a tragic experience to have to go into a home and have to clean up after a flood has rambled through and soaked everything with water and mud.

There are a lot of things we have here in Hancock County and we go around without ever noticing them.

Had a friend visiting from Atlanta Tuesday and he could not believe the beauty of the many azaleas.

Just think of how pretty they would have been without all the rains we have been having which has beaten them down in some instances.

It is amazing at how beautiful the many azaleas are, and we should all be proud we have so many in our county.

The Bay St. Louis Jaycees' food and bake sale sorta got washed out last Saturday before they even got started.

Well, they will try again this Saturday to stage the sale at the Shieldsborough Square, Second and Union Streets, Bay St. Louis.

If you are in the area, we are sure you will be able to find some good baked items, hamburgers and hot dogs.

It is really nice the assistance offered by everyone whenever they find a neighbor or neighborhood in trouble.

Of course we are referring to our neighbors in the Pearlinton area where all the officials of the County as well as Bay St. Louis and Waveland are either pitching in and helping or have made offers to help if it is needed during the flood.

The many volunteers with the Civil Defense, Red Cross and just plain individuals should not go without also being recognized.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL - THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

BUSINESS FREEDOM'S DOWNWARD SPIRAL

Is it possible that the American people can preserve their freedoms in the face of a massive bureaucracy, supported by an incredible web of laws and regulations?

Perhaps. Since the beginnings of this country, the American people have cherished their economic freedom and they want no one to place any unreasonable restraints on their activities. But, in the economic sector today the power of the government decision making is continually growing larger.

This change in business decision making has been described as a shift from the professional management of the corporation to a vast cadre of government planners and regulators who not only influence and control, but who are not responsible for key management decisions.

SALTY SALTY

Many of us who strive for moderation have succeeded when it comes to honesty.

In 1788, James Madison, in describing the process by which government becomes pervasive in an otherwise free society, said, "I believe there are more cases of abridgment of the freedom of the people by gradual and silent encroachments of those in power than by sudden usurpations."

These gradual encroachments, according to the Mississippi Economic Council, have placed the American enterprise system under a blanket of laws, rules, and regulations which place our free society in danger of strangulation.

The Council, the voice of business in Mississippi, recommends that no additional regulatory measures be enacted until the economic impact of such measures can be determined, that responsibilities of the various regulatory agencies be reviewed to eliminate overlapping functions, and that federal agencies be required to use only persons knowledgeable in the area in which they are drafting regulations.

Perk up your future.

Take stock in America. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

The telegram arrived in the afternoon mail and could have been written by anyone living in America today. Its message was brief, but straight to the point.

It said, simply, "Do something." Written by an individual now retired from the U.S. Army and living in Mississippi, the telegram's message pretty much summed up a growing sense of frustration and concern among the people for their country.

It's easy to understand why such a feeling exists. All you have to do is point to rampant inflation, with prices jumping another 1.4 percent last month, high interest rates, strained relations with our friends abroad, a growing national deficit and a faltering national defense.

But, more importantly, the message in the telegram was a plea for President Carter and the Congress to act to solve problems. Some activities now underway are designed to help.

Take the balanced budget as an example. The House Budget Committee has approved the first balanced budget in its history. The document provides tax cuts of approximately $17.4 billion.

The balanced budget may be the single most important step Congress can take to begin to restore confidence in our ability to get our house in order. While experts say it would reduce inflation by only a fraction of one percent, the psychological impact would be tremendous.

I have long supported a balanced budget, and I also believe federal spending should be linked to a percentage of the Gross National Product (GNP) to hold spending down in the future. Only when we cut back on spending and on taxes will we begin to see a difference in the national economy.

Other beneficial legislation is also moving. One which was on its way to the President last week would exempt from federal income tax up to $400 in interest you earn from money in a savings account.

Another which cleared the House would authorize interest-bearing checking accounts to encourage individuals to save money, which, in turn, could be used for such things as home construction and business expansion.

When you talk about federal spending, you have to be concerned about military strength. In that connection, the House Armed Services Committee has authorized $1.7 billion for construction of two additional CG47 cruisers and long lead time funding for another. This could make a total of five new cruisers for our Navy, which is badly in need of warships. I want to emphasize, though, that funding for the three vessels included in the committee proposal remains preliminary, and the road to final approval contains numerous hurdles.

We are also working on reductions in foreign aid and welfare spending, "sunset" laws to eliminate ineffective agencies and other energy proposals to make the U.S. less dependent on foreign oil.

The subjects I have mentioned will not serve to cure inflation. But I believe they are part of the medicine necessary now to get our country back on its feet.

Letters to the Editor

Drugs 'swept under the rug'

March 30, 1980
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Sir,

In reference to Mrs. Rosalie Kergosein's letter concerning the "alleged drug bust" at our Catholic school, we as Catholics would like to respond.

Unfortunately, the drug bust was fact, not fiction.

If those in authority would admit it,

would go away

the rumors would be quieted.

As parents of children in public schools, we are indirectly involved, as some of the students expelled as a result of the incident are now attending public schools.

The only solution to this problem is to find the source of the "drugs." The students should obtain counseling.

This will not be possible if these incidents are "swept under the rug."

Sincerely,
Bill & Sherry Field

Mississippi lags in attracting

industry with gasohol

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

An Open Letter To The People Of Mississippi:

In 1980 the citizens of our state will be forced to pay over 500 million dollars to OPEC countries for our state-wide energy needs.

Construction of fuel alcohol plants in Mississippi would allow us to begin the necessary replacement of imported OPEC oil with domestically produced fuel alcohol to blend with domestically produced gasoline.

However, this potential new industry cannot consider building and operating in Mississippi without your support of legislation exempting Mississippi made "gasohol" or alcohol blended fuels from the state sales tax.

Louisiana and Arkansas already have these incentives in place and are as a result attracting this new industry. Alabama will soon have incentive exemptions.

Mississippi is the only state among the four mentioned that has not aggressively pursued and made attractive to industrial prospects an exemption on alcohol blended fuels.

There is a bill in the Legislature to legalize production of alcohol fuels, but making it legal is not enough.

Since Mississippi is the only state where the manufacture of fuel alcohol is illegal, the necessary legalization legislation becomes simply a "catching up" scenario.

Three years are required planning, engineering, and constructing industrial fuel alcohol plants.

If exemption legislation is enacted this year, significant production will not be available until 1983.

The impact on the State treasury of such an exemption will be small, and by most estimates will be about three million dollars annually, beginning in 1983. It is an excellent investment in the State's energy future.

If you support this sales tax exemption on Gasohol containing fuel alcohol distilled in Mississippi based plants, please call or write the senator and representative in your district and discuss it with him.

We all know that only by developing alternative fuel systems, intensifying domestic drilling, and strict conservation can we succeed in dealing with the problem of overdependence on imported oil.

Who will benefit from higher utilities?

To The Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

Gas blows away! Unbelievable? No! A real fact! The City received a letter from the Federal Regulatory Commission of Washington D.C.

Tuesday, March 24, 1980, Barbay Engineers, after a rate analysis of the Bay St. Louis Utility System held a public hearing to discuss their findings.

This information benefited the Utility System and not the low income, fixed income or senior citizens of the community.

This system shows need for a 38.5 percent hike in addition to the 15 percent lost because of deteriorating pipes, all at the expense of which the consumer has to absorb.

Is this the responsibility of the consumer? NO! The burden should be placed on the shoulders of the system because of their negligence of the problem as it occurred.

Nurses aides reported working below minimum wage

March 28, 1980
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

In the last few years I have been in a different hospital four times.

During my recent stay in Hancock General Hospital I found that we have a good hospital.

There are real nice nurses, aides and workers there.

I had better care there than in the other hospital.

The service was great and the Doctors at Hancock General are tops, as far as I am concerned.

But I think it is a disgrace that the hospital is not kept up to date.

Some of the employees of the hospital

Recommendation after recommendation was given! But in favor of WHOM?

I agree it was informative. It had no emphasis and no reservation, like a bet across the board.

My personal observation is that the City will make over and above their expenditures ($120,000.00).

Consideration should be shown in the revision of the structure to defray the cost of living to ALL CONSUMERS.

The City of Bay St. Louis received a Federal approved rebate of $61,000.00 from United Pipe Line. Shouldn't we the consumer have a share of this in the form of a rebate.

Yes, I agree that there are no free meals-but we do pay dearly for those that we do receive. Do we have to wait till the year 1999? Who will benefit then!

Sincerely,
CONCERNED CITIZEN

are not even getting minimum wages.

I think it is time for the officials of this county to get off the pot and do something for our hospital and schools in Hancock County.

These are the two most important things in our county.

Maybe people would not be calling our hospital a first aid station.

I can't say enough good things about the people that took care of me at the hospital.

But some way I think the officials of this county should try to stay up with the times and not always be years behind.

Too much is happening in our County. Thanks again to the people of Hancock General Hospital.

Children torturing animals face punishment

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis, MS.

Dear Sir:

This is to inform, all pet and animal lovers, that our Humane Society has been receiving quite a few reports of acts of torture and violence, some of which are committed by young boys with B.B. guns, shooting at cats, kittens and dogs.

I wonder if these youngsters know, there are laws, with fines and punishment in detention centers for such acts.

One kitten recently treated by a veterinarian was literally riddled with B.B. shots. Most of the children we know are kind to animals and some have offered to join the Humane Society and to attend our meetings.

We hear of so many brutal murders via the news media, perhaps some of these children who do violence to dumb beasts are getting preliminary practice for future acts of violence to humans in their adult life.

News from the Church of St. Ann

A thought for the day from the library of Father Canisius Hayes, pastor St. Ann's Parish:

God loves us as we are. He sees us as beings in process. He takes us, at whatever point we may be in our development.

Man is free, and he can freely walk away from love, even when love is opening its arms to receive him, even when it is opening its arms to a cross. God is always there for us, always offering Himself in warmth and might. It is important that we understand this during life. The only alternative would be to discover in death what we never knew in life, and with St. Augustine's lament, "Too late, to late, O Lord, have I loved you...Memory is indeed a sad privilege."

WATER RISING FAST - Roy Baxter, left, marina owner; Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, and Royce Shiyon, Coast Electric safety coordinator, survey water height at 2 p.m. Monday at a little under four foot. The gauge, set up by the Corps of Engineers at Baxter's Marina last year, registered only 5 1/4 feet at the crest of the 1979 Spring flood. Indications were that the height would exceed that amount this year from estimates. Baxter said this is the first time in his lifetime for floods to consecutive years in Pearlington. ## County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

MULCH GARDENS

If you have not planned to mulch your summer garden, I urge you to consider this important practice. Several organic materials can be applied underneath plants as mulches.

They include sawdust, pine straw, wood chips, corn cobs and grass clippings. Mulches will reduce weed problems, maintain a uniform soil moisture and reduce erosion.

By mulching, you won't have to water as often. Less fertilizer also will be needed during the growing season. Fruit will be kept cleaner, and there will be less fruit rot loss.

Mulches also add organic matter to the soil when turned under at the end of the growing season.

FERTILIZE CORN

There is always the question of when to fertilize corn. If you use ammonium nitrate as a source of fertilizer, I suggest you split the application. Apply 25 to 50 percent of the material preplant or at planting and side or top dress the rest when the corn is about 12 to 14 inches tall. It is not practical to split applications on anhydrous ammonia. For fertilization rates and other information, contact my office.

ANIMAL WASTE GOOD FERTILIZER

As fertilizer prices increase, farmers may want to take a hard look at animal wastes as a nutrient source for crops. Animal wastes like livestock manure and poultry litter are good substitutes for or supplements to commercial fertilizer. They can be used on both pastures and row crops. An extra benefit is that they add organic matter back to the soil.

Animal wastes vary in nutrient content, so check each batch separately for nutrient value. Suggested amounts are four to six tons per acre on pasture or grain crops. On row crops, you will also need to apply a starter fertilizer such as 13-13-13 at the rate of 100 to 200 pounds per acre.

It's best to incorporate animal wastes to cut nutrient loss. On row crops, apply and work it into the soil during seedbed preparation.

FEEDING FERMENTED COLOSTRUM

You can cut the cost of raising calves by feeding fermented colostrum. Start calves on fresh or fermented colostrum right after birth. Give them fresh colostrum the first two or three days, then switch to fermented colostrum.

It's also important to start calves on grain as soon as possible. Begin with a 20 percent crude protein calf starter and wean calves as soon as they eat 1 1/2 pounds of ration daily.

If colostrum runs out before calves are weaned, substitute whole milk or milk replacer.

Construction Women study metric system applications

Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter No. 256, National Association of Women in Construction (NAWIC), met Tuesday, March 18, at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the Peoples Bank on Lameuse Street in Biloxi.

A "Metrication Workshop" was given by Sue Ulmer, chairman of the professional education committee.

The workshop was developed by Liliana Trodler of the Corpus Christi, Texas chapter to introduce members to metrics in the order to become more knowledgeable on how the system can be implemented in the construction industry.

Vice President Nancy Lawrence of H. Gordon Myrick, Inc. presided over the chapter's monthly membership meeting.

Betty Jo Lewis, chairman of the construction projects committee, announced that the chapter is providing funds for weatherstripping some windows and doors at a Senior Citizen's house in Gulfport.

In addition to this civic project, a workshop will be open to the public on April 29 at the Emerald Beach Motel Restaurant in Biloxi at 7 p.m. conducted on "Administrative Procedures of Air Force Contracts."

Further information will be available at the next chapter meeting.

An "Introduction to Construction" course will be sponsored by the chapter at the Jefferson Davis Campus of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College during the fall semester.

Kay Ward, chairman of the education committee, reported an instructor for the course will be chosen directly from the construction industry.

The total fee for the course will be $45 including tuition, parking and course literature.

Barbara Lee said the chapter's Employer and WIC of the Year Banquet will be at Best Western-Gulfport Inn June 7 with dinner beginning at 7 p.m.

Entertainment will be provided by a mime group from Jefferson Davis Junior College followed by the Chapter's annual awards given to an outstanding employer and chapter member.

The Chapter's first ways and means project will be a style show near the end of April or first of May with fashions provided by D. Collins Ltd. of Biloxi.

Madelle Noble, chairman of the ways and means committee, is finalizing details for the project and has planned a porch sale in June.

Officers of the chapter signed papers for incorporation in the State of Mississippi. All NAWIC chapter's are being encouraged to incorporate for their protection from legal actions against any individual members.

Helen Aycock, president of the chapter, will serve as the resident officer. Mrs. Lawrence announced plans for the NAWIC Region V Forum in Memphis, Tennessee April 25 and 26 at the Holiday Inn-Riverview.

The next monthly meeting of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter will be Tuesday, April 15 at the Peoples Bank Conference Room in Biloxi.

Membership in the chapter is open to all women employed in any phase of the construction industry.

For further information about the next meeting and NAWIC, contact Nancy Lawrence, H. Gordon Myrick, Inc., P.O. Box 1479, Gulfport, MS 39501 or call 864-9911.

FINANCIAL SECRETARY—The appointment of Kris Fulton of Long Beach as financial secretary of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory effective April 1 was recently announced by Dr. Harold Howse, director. Fulton has been acting financial secretary since January 1, when Mrs. Lee Rasor took leave prior to retiring. Her retirement became official at the end of March. After graduating from Mississippi State University in 1975 with a B.S. in business statistics and data processing, Fulton began work at the Lab as an accounting programmer in September of that year. He was named assistant financial secretary in 1978.

Rearing children expensive, consumer specialist reports

MONEY TALKS

By Norine Barnes

The average cost of raising a child is between $3,400 and $3,800 per year. This is providing a life style of moderate means. Only ten years ago the same cost ranged from $1,800 to $2,000 a year.

Totalled for 18 years, this means a family can look forward to spending somewhere between $61,000 and $68,300 on each child. This is not including increased inflation.

Larroux wins poster contest

Jean Larroux, a fourth grade student at Bay St. Louis Catholic Elementary School, was the first place winner in the Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary's Special Olympics poster contest held last week.

Other winners were Vince Perniciaro, sixth grade, and Georgiana Dugan, fifth grade. Prizes were awarded all three.

Flower arrangement program slated

"ARRANGING PERMANENT FLOWERS"

Mrs. Shirley Robinson, Extension Home Economist for Hancock county, announced a program entitled "Arranging Permanent Flowers." This free educational program will be held Tuesday, April 8, at 10:00 a.m. at the extension auditorium, 405 Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

John E. Davis, area horticulturist with the extension service for Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson counties will discuss and demonstrate how to make permanent flower arrangements.

Davis helped pay his way through college working as a floral designer at the University Florist, Mississippi State University's floral design and flower shop management teaching laboratory.

Davis says that permanent flower arrangements can be an excellent decorative accessory to any room provided it is properly designed to coordinate with the room's furniture and color scheme. Permanent arrangements are decorator accessories and as much time should go into selecting them as go into selecting a drape fabric or color or a sofa.

Make plans to attend this free educational program and learn how to make your own permanent arrangements properly. Mrs. Robinson invites all to come and to bring a friend.

Beautification group calls for April clean-up

April has been designated as clean-up month in Mississippi by Keep Mississippi Beautiful Incorporated (KMB), and Commissioner Jim Buck Ross, Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, president of KMB, says that plans for a massive statewide effort include every city, town, community and individual in the state.

"This is the time of year that housewives begin to think about Spring Cleaning and we are asking that everyone give special attention to cleaning and beautifying the outside in residential, business and recreation areas as well," Ross said.

Clean up-paint up committees all over the state will be seeking the cooperation of every person in removing unsightly litter, repairing and painting buildings and other structures and doing whatever is necessary to make the Mississippi landscape more attractive.

Ross pointed out that every man, woman, boy and girl has a stake in making their surroundings more attractive.

Real estate buyers, shoppers, home makers and tourists are likely to look elsewhere when litter and other unsightly objects are in evidence. People are often judged by the appearance of their surroundings whether it is at home or business, on the farm or in the city.

"If each homeowner or businessperson would clean up and beautify his own property," Ross said, "The total job of clean up-paint up would be well on the way to completion and success. A successful clean up-paint up campaign benefits everyone in establishing a standard of pride and helps them enjoy healthier, safer, and more beautiful surroundings."

Many persons will be contacted by local committees during the next few weeks, and Ross said he hopes all of those contacted and others as well, will respond favorably to cleaning up and painting up Mississippi.

Waveland native reenacts Decatur duel in Washington, D.C.

The "ghost" of naval hero Stephen Decatur returned to his former home Friday night, 160 years after his death by duel on March 22, 1820.

The handsome hero of the War of 1812, for whom a dozen cities throughout the United States are named, strolled down Lafayette Square, to the Decatur House.

Roland Langley, a native of Waveland and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Jenkins of Waveland and Mrs. Doris Bell of Long Beach, is dressed in the navy blue, white and gold uniform of the 19th century as he portrays the famous naval hero.

Langley is a 24-year-old student at the University of Alabama in Huntsville.

Legend says that on the anniversary even of his death, Commodore Decatur visits the North Drawing Room and the bedroom, or wanders restlessly throughout the mansion he built with prize money from a grateful Congress.

Another version of the legend says Decatur also returns to Bladenburg, Maryland, eight miles away, where he was mortally wounded in the early morning duel with Commodore James Barron.

President James Monroe directed the Surveyor General to designate land for a city to be named in honor of Decatur and 11 weeks later, on June 6, 1820, Decatur, Alabama was incorporated.

It is located on the Tennessee River, midway between Birmingham and Nashville. Its population is 40,000.

Other Decaturs are located in Georgia, Indiana, Texas, Michigan, Illinois, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Iowa, Nebraska, and Ohio.

"Alabama is proud of Commodore Stephen Decatur and we feel there should be renewed support for the principles he stood for," said Langley, a member of the Decatur Tourism Bureau, which sent him to Washington.

"All Americans should remember his famous toast - 'Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong,'" Langley said.

"Those words are even more important today than they were in the early 19th century," Langley said. "We want to call attention to Commodore Decatur and his toast."

Langley and other members of the Decatur Tourism Bureau often wear the naval uniform to speak to school groups and make presentations on behalf of the Alabama city.

Langley and Bob Woodruff of Decatur, Alabama plan to be at the dueling ground Saturday morning to reenact the duel. Woodruff will dress as Barron and both will use authentic dueling pistols, loaded with blanks.

A book by John Alexander said "those who have had occasion to walk across (the area) have often told of fog shrouded shallow of men of another era" - those who had met their fate on the dueling ground.

More than 25 persons died at the dueling field in the first half of the 19th century, including three members of Congress. Even after dueling was outlawed, contestants duelled clandestinely in the area.

Handsome and daring, Decatur had been called the Charles Lindbergh of his day. His exploits in four wars captured public imagination and helped establish the country's naval traditions.

It was on the morning of March 22, 1820 that Decatur journeyed with a friend to the dueling ground along with a creek called Bloody Run.

Barron issued the challenge because he thought Decatur was blocking his promotion. Decatur had presided at a court-martial after which Barron had been suspended from duty.

The duel was at a deadly eight paces.

Shots rang out simultaneously. Barron was wounded in the hip. The mortally wounded Decatur was brought back to his home across from Lafayette Park near the White House.

Diamondhead forming 'Adelines' chapter

An exciting new world of barbershop harmony is about to open its doors with the formation of Diamondhead's chapter of the Sweet Adelines, Inc.

Singing in harmony is the oldest form of entertainment in this country. Contrary to popular belief, people did not trek across this country carrying guitars and toting pianos in covered wagons.

They needed every available bit of room for the bare necessities of life. When the long day was ended they had only their voices to make musical sounds.

While sitting around a camp fire someone would start singing a melody, perhaps carried with them in memory from their homeland; or even compose one extemporaneously. Another voice, lower, would join in. Then another higher voice would join in until there was harmony without the help of any musical instrument other than the voice.

As this type of singing became more formalized and sophisticated, an organization was formed to preserve this type of singing (men's voices only) in four part harmony.

Later, the women formed a group call the Sweet Adelines. This was received so enthusiastically that it now has thousands of members and has spread to other countries, making it an international organization.

'Project Do' student volunteers from St. Stanislaus and Our Lady's Academy recently conducted a Motor Fitness Program with special education students at Bay Junior High and Bay Senior High.

'Project Do' is a teenage action group that does volunteer services in Hancock County under the direction of Brother Canisius Schell, S.C. The Motor Fitness Program used with the students was based on a skills development program developed by the University of Mississippi.

The students in Mrs. Candace Murphy's, Mrs. Janelle Griffin's, and Mrs. Francis Crawley's groups successfully completed each of the required levels of the program during the past nine weeks under the direction of the following 'Project Do' volunteers:

Neil Bernard, Robert Bocock, Jeff Broekman, Fernando Betanza, Luis Cordova, Tom Demboski, Rock deMontuzin, Keith Favre.

Joseph Hiser, Mak Kersanac, Mike Lyons, Tran Thang, Kenny Montz, John Peranich, Robert Richmond, Elden Spears.

Darrell Spiess, Ernie Zimmermann, John Zinsel, Daphne Glendmeyer, Laurie Lachin, Cynthia Morse, Anne Scafidi, Sahri Scafidi, Diane Tilton, and Mary Beth Waits.

Sergeant Terry Rudisill, Cpl. Charles Ainsworth, and Cpl. John Kersanac from the U.S. Marine Corps recruiting office in Gulfport demonstrated marching rhythms and Mrs. Karen Compretta from the Arabesque School of Dancing volunteered her expertise in dance rhythms for another session.

Upon completion of specific skills the special education students are eligible for an "Ole Miss Award" for motor fitness. All students successfully completed at least one checklist.

The special education students are participating in the exercises in order to complete the 'Motor Fitness' program from Ole Miss.

District conservationist offers erosion-stopping tips

CROPLAND EROSION IS EXPENSIVE
By HARRY PATTERSON
Hancock County
District Conservationist

Soil erosion on cropland is a national concern and is important to Mississippi cropland farmers. There are approximately 7 1/2 million acres of cropland in Mississippi that produces 60 million tons of soil lost from cropland each year.

This is an equivalent to 6 inches of soil lost from 60,000 acres each year. Hancock County is fortunate that much of its land is still in timber, but with the higher prices of soybeans and cattle large acreages are being cut and established to cropland or pastureland.

Mississippi cropland farmers can no longer afford this type of destruction to one of our greatest natural resources. A resource that is not renewable.

If 40 percent of this sediment moves out into drainage ditches, channels, road ditches and in other areas where it has to be removed, the cost of removing the sediment, estimated at 24,000 tons, is about one dollar per ton or $24,000.00.

Not considering other cost, such as possible reduced yield, increased fertilizer cost, increased cost of land preparation and sediment damage to the environment, the annual sediment damage from cropland is approximately $54,000.00.

All cropland that has erosion potential should be looked at carefully by the landowner and a decision made as to the best management practices that can be applied to reduce erosion and yet maintain a profitable economic return.

Any landuser who farm sloping land with row crops should seek assistance from the Soil Conservation Service in Bay St. Louis, to develop a management system for cropland. The assistance offered includes terrace layout, waterway layout, row directions and cropland management.

For more information please contact the Soil Conservation Service in Bay St. Louis, at 467-5108.

Uncured meats have shorter shelf-life

By Norine Barnes
Consumers concerned about nitrites in meats have a choice. In many supermarkets nitrite-free hotdogs, luncheon meats, and other traditionally cured meat products are available.

Some have been around for years, but only since September have they been labeled by traditional names preceded by the word uncured.

Before the recent labeling regulation, nitrite-free hotdogs were known as "uncured cooked sausage" and nitrite-free bacon as "pork bellies" or "pork strips."

Often they appeared in the frozen food section rather than the refrigerated meat section of the store. Now, more of these products may be appearing alongside nitrite-containing products in the meat case.

The new regulation may make the products easier to find and more appealing to buy. While some consumers may feel the nitrite-less product is a healthier choice, their health may also depend on how wisely they handle the products.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is warning consumers that the uncured products shelf-life is shorter than nitrated counterparts. Uncured hot dogs, bacon, and corned beef, for example, can be refrigerated safely for only four to seven days. These same cured products can be stored for two to three weeks. Uncured processed meats should be stored like fresh meat to assure safe eating.

Leftover hot dogs may not be refrigerated until long after the picnic is over. Food poisoning is possible if nitrite processed meats are handled in the same way.

The role of nitrite in retarding the production of botulinum toxin is regarded by some as a critical reason for the use of nitrite in cured meat. Meat serves as an excellent medium for the growth of several other microorganisms.

It is believed that nitrite serves a function in preventing the growth of these organisms as well. Uncured hot dogs or luncheon meats left at room temperature for more than two hours could result in the growth of Salmonella or Clostridium perfringens organisms and subsequent food poisoning.

New levels of uncured processed meats that have not been dried, thermal processed, or pickled will contain the warning, "Not preserved-Keep Refrigerated Below 40 degrees At All Times."

If it isn't possible to put your bag lunch in a refrigerator, an alternative is to freeze the meat sandwich the evening before; it will be thawed by lunchtime.

On picnics, uncured meat products should be carried in a well insulated cooler with plenty of ice or a commercial freezer gel. Leftovers should be returned to the cooler quickly and kept on ice until you get home. Leftovers that have not been handled properly should be discarded.

If handled properly, nitrite products can provide a healthy alternative to the consumer wishing to avoid or reduce consumption of nitrite containing foods.

War veteran benefit use numbers nearly 68 percent

Nearly 68 percent of America's 30 million living war veterans have utilized at least one Veterans Administration benefit according to a just released study conducted for VA by the Bureau of the Census.

The study also indicated 23 percent of the veterans had received some VA benefit during the 12 months preceding the Census survey, according to Max Cleland, VA Administrator.

More than 11,000 male veterans representing all periods of service participated in the mail survey.

Results showed that: -Of those veterans who chose not to use their GI Bill education benefits-the most popular category of all VA benefits-nearly 40 percent said they preferred to work instead, while 14.6 percent cited a lack of money and nearly 13 percent said they had all the education they needed;

-Approximately 92 percent of all Vietnam Era veterans were aware of their eligibility for VA education benefits, and nearly 72 percent knew about these benefits before they left military service;

-Of those veterans who used a VA home loan guaranty to purchase their first home, only 28 percent indicated they would have been able to purchase their home without a VA home loan guaranty; and

-A greater proportion of Korean Conflict veterans than those of any other period hold GI life insurance policies. Vietnam Era veterans tend to maintain GI insurance at higher face value than veterans of other periods of service.

Cleland said the survey revealed that 69 percent of all Vietnam Era veterans have so far received a VA benefit while 76 percent of Korean Conflict veterans have benefitted from some agency program.

Fifty-four percent of World War I veterans have received a VA benefit, while 74 percent of World War II veterans have utilized at least one VA benefit.

In the field of education, the survey showed that black veterans are more likely to utilize vocational educational programs, and less likely than their white counterparts to use college level training.

But for both blacks and whites, college training topped all GI Bill usage by wide margins: 57 percent of whites and 45 percent of blacks who used this benefit did so for college level courses.

World War II veterans had the highest completion rates for service connected injuries or illness, 15 percent of all veterans had applied for benefits and 69 percent were still pending.

In contrast, 12 percent of Vietnam Era veterans had applied for compensation at the time of the survey (1977) and 64 percent of the claims had been approved. Five percent were still pending.

Cleland said the survey showed that nearly 85 percent of all veterans have health care insurance, and nearly 80 percent of Vietnam Era veterans have such coverage. Most veterans (78.4 percent) are insured by private companies.

The survey showed that nearly 12 percent of all veterans have been hospitalized in a VA medical center at some time since their discharge from military service.

Of those who have been patients at non-VA hospitals, but have not used VA medical facilities, more than 42 percent said they chose private hospitals because they had adequate hospitalization insurance or sick benefits.

Hancock officials attend vet seminar

Hancock Veterans' Service Officer Mike Ladner, Tom Cain, Pete Faucetta, and George Thompson, attended a seminar sponsored by the Biloxi Administration Medical Center March 21.

Mr. Wooten D. Simpson, Center Director, opened the program with remarks concerning the VA Medical Center's mission and its capacity for providing health care to eligible veterans.

Other VA Officials on the program were Dr. Thomas O. Hodges, Chief of Staff, Dr. Berwind N. Kaufmann, Chief, Outpatient Section, Mr. Robert E. Long, Chief, Medical Administration Service, and Mr. William Bryant, Chief, Veterans Benefits Division, Veterans Administration Regional Office, Jackson, Mississippi.

The program was designed to brief the participants on VA Programs affecting the veteran and to acquaint each with the various policies at the Center.

Following remarks by those on the program, a panel discussion was held and participants were given an opportunity to ask questions concerning the Center and other matters relating to the veterans benefits.

Pizza Hut slates annual 10,000 meter race

The Second Annual Pizza Hut Gulf Coast Classic, featuring a 10,000 meter run and a two mile 'fun-run,' is slated April 19 at Harbor Square in Gulfport.

A runners' clinic will be conducted April 18 at the Rice Pavilion in Harbor Square from 6-9 p.m. with Dr. Kenneth E. Ellingswood as guest speaker.

Some 541 entrants ran the Mississippi Gulf Coast Jogging Club-sponsored race last year, including runners from Bay St. Louis, Waveland, New Orleans, Alabama, Florida, and Oklahoma.

Between 800 to 1,000 runners are expected to participate in this year's event, according to District Pizza Hut Manager Mike Chapman.

Entry forms are available at the Bay St. Louis Pizza Hut on US-90, according to Manager Dennis Stabler.

Radio station KX-107 is also a co-sponsor in the event.

Both races begin at 9:30 a.m. April 19 in front of the West Gulfport Pizza Hut on US-90 one mile west of the Hwy. 49-US-90 intersection.

Registration fee for the races is $5 if received by April 16, with late registration fee of $6.

The 10,000 meter course runs up 37th Avenue, turns on 10th Street, goes south on 41st Avenue, and turns onto 40th Avenue, where runners will turn on Hwy. 90 east.

The course will proceed east on US-90 to Hewes Avenue, turn north on that street to Second Avenue, and proceed west to the finish line on 24th Avenue.

The first part of the two mile 'fun-run' will be the same as the 6.2 mile run, but will turn off on 24th Avenue nearly two miles into the race.

Transportation will be furnished by Pizza Hut from a downtown parking lot on 24th Avenue to the starting line from 7-9 a.m.

A Russell Athletic T-Shirt will be awarded to all participants, in addition to race certificates with name and time slots for all finishers and trophies to division winners.

In the 10,000 meter run, award plaques will be given to fastest overall first, second, and third places in men's and women's divisions.

Divisions for the two mile run are children seven and under, 8-12, 13-17, 18-29, 30-39, and 40 and over.

Divisions in the 10,000 meter run are 12 and under, 13-17, 18-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, and 40 and over.

Dr. Ellingswood, guest speaker at the clinic Friday night, was the assistant team physician to the 1979 World Cup Team, is a veteran Marathoner, and is a personal friend of famed long-distance champions Marty Liquori and Frank Shorter.

The clinic is sponsored by the Athletic Attic in Gulfport.

For more information contact Race Director Rick Newcomer after 3 p.m. at 435-2642.

ASCS Report

FIP: THE FORESTRY PROGRAM FOR SMALL FARMERS

A county farmer who owns at least 10 acres of eligible forest land can receive cost-share assistance under the Forestry Incentives Program (FIP) to raise marketable timber on his land.

The six-year-old forestry program administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) helps landowners plant trees and improve already growing timber stands by cutting out unmarketable trees.

Tree planting is not only a good investment, but it also helps increase the Nation's supply of timber. The demand for sawtimber, plywood logs and quality hardwood logs in this country is expected to exceed the supply within 25 years, unless many more trees are planted each year and much more forest land is placed under good management.

Lands owned by the forest industry and by the public are being planted and improved at the fastest rate possible.

Many private non-industrial landowners do not have the funds to make necessary long-term investments to develop and improve their forest areas.

FIP is designed to share the expense with private, eligible owners. The overall FIP objective is to encourage planting of trees on suitable open lands or cutover areas and perform timber stand improvement work for production of timber and other related forest resources.

Cost-sharing means the landowner and the Federal government each pays part of the cost. The Federal share may range up to 75 percent of the total.

Cost-share funds are allocated each program year to ASC State Committees on the basis of a Forest Service survey of total eligible private timber acreage and acreage that is potentially suitable for production of timber products. The ASC State committee, in consultation with the State forester, develops a program that reflects the forestry needs in the State, including a list of designated counties, eligible forestry practices, cost-share rates and practice specifications. Some States may offer approved special FIP practices.

To meet the program objective and fully utilize available funds in a cost-effective manner, the program is offered only in designated counties where a suitable number of owner-ships are available that are each capable of producing at least 50 cubic feet of timber per year.

Technical help, provided through State foresters, assures that forests are managed professionally and efficiently. This helps relieve landowners' fears about timber raising, because it takes from 20 to 40 years to derive returns from money invested in forestry.

FIP's two major program practices are tree planting and tree stand improvement. Tree planting is intended to increase the production of timber and improve the environment. Site preparation is an authorized part of the practice, if the forester certifies it is necessary.

Tree stand improvement is aimed at increasing tree growth on sites suitable for production of sawtimber and veneer logs. Both softwood and hardwood practices qualify. Releasing desirable seedlings and young trees are acceptable practices, as well as site preparation for natural regeneration.

There is a payment limitation of $10,000 to any one person during any year of the agreement.

Corps permit actions told

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Mobile District Office, during February, issued one permit in Pass Christian and cancelled one application for placing piling in the navigable waters near Waveland.

An application for J.D. Lea, Inc., for placing piling around an oyster farm in the Mississippi Sound near Waveland was cancelled by the Corps.

Robert S. Labry was issued a permit to place approximately 25 cubic yards of riprap along the shoreline of Bayou Boisdeore near Pass Christian.

The All Purpose Extension Homemakers Club met Monday afternoon in extension auditorium with Mrs. Genevieve Daniels, president, presiding.

Plans for making pins for souvenirs to be given at the National Extension Homemakers Council meeting in Biloxi in September and also making articles for county home residents were discussed.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. Monday, April 28.

VA BENEFITS

Single veterans going to school full-time under the GI Bill receive full-time under the GI Bill receive $311 per month in Veterans Administration training benefits. Those with dependents get more.

1974, ASCS has provided over $54 million in cost-sharing. The first 13-acre stand of loblolly pines cost-shared under FIP was on Randy Browder's farm, in Chatham, Louisiana.

Those trees are now over 15 feet tall. The millionth FIP acre, which also grows loblolly pines, is located on Jack Night's farm in Webster County, Mississippi. FIP funds helped pay for clearing 45 acres of underbrush and valueless trees and for the planting of about 700 loblolly pines per acre. These trees will reach maturity in about 30 years.

Nationally, FIP has improved or reforested over 1.5 million acres of land. From these acres, the Nation will ultimately derive almost 5 billion cubic feet of timber and timber products.

Here in Pearl River and Hancock Counties, FIP has been used to improve 1,215 woodland acres since its inception.

To obtain an application or additional program information, contact the local ASC office.

FISHIN' TIPS

from... Tom Mann

HI TOM: "Finally got myself a depth sounder but I don't know how to interpret what the dial shows. How can I train myself to recognize the signal of, say, a tree?" ROBERTO HELLO ROBERTO: Well, why not tie some concrete to a tree and sink it in deep enough water. Then, slowly pass over it again and again until you become familiar with the signal. That tree will make a good spot to fish, also, for bass and crappies. Good luck, ol' buddy, you're on your way to good fishing.

DEAR TOM: "When I'm trolling and catch a fish, I count the turns of the handle until I land it so I can see how much line I had out. But, how do I let the same number of turns out when my handle doesn't turn so I can count turns?" BAFFLED.

DEAR BAFFLED: Carry a felt tip pen with waterproof ink and mark the line just ahead of your reel when you catch a fish trolling. Then, just let out the line until the mark appears.

HEY TOM: "How do you fish a rocky shore for bass?" HILLBILLY HAL

DEAR HAL: All ways. I go out and cast into the shore, and walk a little george, or jellyworm, down the shore like stairs. Then, I go inshore and walk these lures up the shore's stairs. And, finally, I retrieve parallel to the shore as far as I can cast. This way, I figure I cover all the places a bass could be.

Waveland Seniors sponsoring children's Easter egg hunt

The Waveland Senior Citizens Inc. is sponsoring an Easter Egg Hunt Saturday at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue.

The event will celebrate the Year Of The Child and opening of the Summer season on the Coast.

The group is hoping for an "abundance of tall grass to entice bunnies to lay many eggs so all children can begin to hunt at 10 a.m. Saturday morning," a club spokesman said.

Tickets for the hunt may be purchased at the Waveland library in advance for fifty cents.

Committee members are Waveland Mayor John Longo; his mother Mrs. Marie Longo; Mrs. Anna Mae Roppello; Mr.

and Mrs. Maurice Shea; Mrs. Mary Callier; and Mrs. Pere Cabibi.

Senior Citizens are encouraged to come hunt for cash prizes, rain or shine, the club reported.

Offer family variety in food, dining area

A CHANGE IN COOKS

By Shirley G. Robinson
Extension Home Economist

Modern equipment, modern methods, modern foods have cut kitchen hours to a fraction of what they were in Grandma's day. Today's busy cooks are getting better results with fewer hours - a welcome change from the early days when one had to "slave over a hot stove" for a major portion of the day.

To save even more time in meal preparation, choose "Make It Ahead" as your motto. This just takes a little preplanning, then when it becomes a habit, it's like having a helper in the kitchen. What a surprised family you'll have when they see the delicious meal you produced while you sat down with the paper. The idea is, of course, to do the make-ahead work when you have more time on your hands.

First, the obvious can be done - cook ahead or freeze ahead for future use. If some dishes are family favorites, make a double or triple batch and freeze the extras.

Next, when you arrive home with the groceries, wash the salad greens and other fresh vegetables and refrigerate them in plastic bags or other containers.

Shape ground beef into patties, stack between pieces of freezer paper and freeze. For dairy products - they're always convenient and ready - no fuss, no mess. Store them in the refrigerator at 40 degrees or lower so they will stay at their peak in freshness and flavor.

At preparation time, gather everything you need from the refrigerator on a tray. Do all the cutting, slicing and chopping at once. Both save minutes, steps and cleanup, too.

Don't forget drama in the flavoring and serving of food. Add a special touch with garnishes.

You want to have your meal look as good as it tastes. If your family's stopped commenting on your cooking and it's been weeks since anyone's said, "That was delicious, maybe you've gotten into a rut."

An easy way to bring infinite variety to your day-in, day-out cooking is to put familiar foods together in new combinations.

An attractive setting for a dinner is like a right frame for a work of art. For a change, move the meal to different locations around the house.

Serve on the patio when the evening is warm or when cold winds blow, gather in front of the fireplace.

Even the kitchen or dining room table will make a simple meal elegant if you add candlelight.

Here is a fine receipt guaranteed to bring raves from your family:

PERFECT TUNA CASSEROLE

1 cup cooked peas
1/4 cup slightly crumbled potato chips

Mississippi VA funding to jump $4.5 million

The Veterans Administration plans to spend more than $293 million in Mississippi during Fiscal Year 1981, starting next October 1, an increase of approximately $4,519,000 compared to the present Fiscal Year 1980 according to Mike Ladner, Hancock County veterans service officer.

The amount is part of a budget request of $22.7 billion sent to Congress last month by President Carter. It calls for the highest funding level in VA's 50 years of existence and puts special emphasis on the problems of Vietnam Era veterans and the increasing needs of older veterans.

Ladner said the spending request for Mississippi includes $178,698,000 for compensation and pension payments to veterans and survivors. This compares to $172,820,000 during FY 1980. The budget asks $17,527,000 for education, training and vocational rehabilitation payments in the state for the coming year. The FY 1980 amount is $21,995,000.

The difference, Ladner said, is accounted for by the projected decrease in the number of Vietnam Era veterans receiving readjustment benefits and GI Bill payments. Nationally spending in this area peaked in 1976.

Medical and construction program funds in the amount of $81,399,000 were requested of Congress, Ladner said. This year, VA's budget for Mississippi has $78,455,000 for these programs.
